THE DAFFODILS

I wonder'd levelly as a cloud
That floats on high o'er vales and hills,
When all at once I saw a crowd,
Host of golden daffodils,
Beside the lake, beneath the trees,
Fluttering and dancing in the breeze.

Continuous as the stars that shine
And twinkle on the Milky way,
They stretch'd in never-ending line
Along the margin of a bay;
Ten thousand saw I at a glance,
Tossing their heads in sprightly dance.

The waves beside them danced, but they
Outdid the sparkling waves in glee:—
A poet could not but be gay,
In such a jocund company:
I gazed, and gazed, but little thought
Of wealth, or how the show to me had brought.

For oft, when on my couch I lie
In vacant or in pensive mood,
They flash upon that inward eye,
Which is the bliss of solitude;
And then my heart with pleasure fills,
And dances with the daffodils.

W. Wordsworth

The Mountain Emily Dickinson

The mountain set upon the plain
In his eternal chair,
His observation omniscient,
His request everywhere.

The seasons prayed around his knees
Like children round a fire,
Grandfather of the days to his,
Of dawn the ancestor.

Emily Dickinson

Be in mind Remember
If you should always be in mind
that we should do our duty

I saw you toss the kites on high
And blow the birds about the sky;
And all around I heard you pass
Like ladies' skirts across the grass -
O wind, a - blowing all day long!
O wind, that sings so loud a song!
I saw the different things you did
But always you yourself you hid -
I felt you push, I heard you call,
I could not see yourself at all -
O wind, a - blowing all day long,
O wind, that sings so loud a song!
O you that are so strong and cold,
O blower, are you young or old?
Are you a beast of field and tree,
or just a stronger child than me?
O wind, a - blowing all day long,
O wind, that sings so loud a song!

Hope is the thing with feathers
That perches in the soul
And sings the tune without the words
And never stops at all.
And sweetest in the gale is heard
And sore must be the storm
That could abash the little bird
That kept so many warm.
I've heard it in the chilliest land,
And on the strangest sea;
Yet, never in extremity,
It asked a crumb of me.
— Emily Dickinson

DO YOU KNOW?
When water is heated to 100 degrees Celsius, it boils and becomes steam. When steam touches a cold surface it condenses and becomes water again. When water is cooled below 0 degrees Celsius, it freezes and becomes ice. If the temperature increases, the ice melts. When frozen food or icy food thaws or defrosts when you take it out of the freezer.
